PIS's South Island Expansion Plans

PROFESSIONAL Investment Services New Zealand is set for further expansion after appointing a business development manager for the South Island.

Supported by substantial industry experience, Jon Eather will take up the position based in Christchurch, and will also be responsible for the lower North Island.

The appointment comes as PIS NZ has experienced a boom in recruitment, with 20 advisers having joined the burgeoning company in the past month.

PIS NZ general manager David Keys said the appointment of Mr Eather would capitalise on the company's recent growth, and offer further avenue for expansion.

“With regulation about to be implemented a lot of advisers see the benefits of aligning to a professional organisation with clear growth plans going forward,” he said.

“Adviser groups, mortgage brokers and insurance advisers are also attracted to the level of support and resources PIS NZ offers to members.

“Jon brings a wealth of experience to the role and will continue the excellent growth we have been experiencing.”

Mr Eather boasts more than 16 years' experience in the financial services industry, focusing for the last eight years on all aspects of Superannuation and the provision of sound financial advice.

He brings with him a working knowledge of the Australian Superannuation and Investment environments backed up by technical knowledge in Para-planning and Compliance.

Jonathon was an integral part of the PIS Australian Para-Planning Team for 2 years and brings an excellent skill set of technical knowledge to underpin his Business Development Manager appointment.

Founded in 2001, PIS NZ has grown its network of branches to 98. Globally PIS has more than $20 billion funds under advice.
